RE: Robinhood Financial, LLC (Respondent)

CRD No. 165998

Robinhood Securities, LLC (Respondent)
Member Firm
CRD No. 287900

Pursuant to FINRA Rule 9216, Respondents Robinhood Financial, LLC (RHF) and Robinhood Securities, LLC (RHS) (collectively, Robinhood) submit this Letter of Acceptance, Waiver, and Consent (AWC) for the purpose of proposing a settlement of the alleged rule violations described below. This AWC is submitted on the condition that, if accepted, FINRA will not bring any future actions against Respondents alleging violations based on the same factual findings described in this AWC.

I.

ACCEPTANCE AND CONSENT

- A. Respondents accept and consent to the following findings by FINRA without admitting or denying them:

BACKGROUND

RHF became a FINRA member firm in October 2013 and launched its online trading platform in December 2014. RHF offers commission-free, self-directed trading for retail investors through its mobile applications and website. RHF is headquartered in Lake Mary, Florida, and has approximately 540 registered representatives at six branch offices.

RHS became a FINRA member firm in October 2017. In November 2018, RHS became the exclusive clearing and carrying firm for its affiliate, RHF. RHS carries customer accounts introduced by RHF on a fully disclosed basis. RHS is headquartered in Lake Mary, Florida, and has approximately 150 registered representatives at six branch offices.

In June 2021, RHF entered into an AWC with FINRA, through which it consented to findings that, between 2014 and 2021, the firm, among other things:

- Negligently distributed false and misleading information to customers, and failed to reasonably supervise communications with customers, including but not limited to communications about the cash balances in their accounts, whether customers' trading could result in the use of margin, and the risks associated with certain options transactions, in violation of FINRA Rules 2010, 2210, 2220, and 3110; and
- Failed to establish or maintain a reasonably designed customer identification program between June 2016 to November 2018, in violation of FINRA Rules 3110 and 2010.

RHF consented to a censure, a $57 million fine, a requirement to pay restitution of $12,598,445 plus interest, and an undertaking to retain a third-party consultant and submit to FINRA a certification that the firm had ceased making the negligent misrepresentations and omissions set forth in the AWC.¹

OVERVIEW

From May 2014 through September 2023, RHF, and from at least November 2018 through July 2022, RHS, failed to establish and maintain supervisory systems that were reasonably designed for the firms' brokerage businesses, resulting in numerous violations of securities laws and FINRA rules.

Providing customers with inaccurate or incomplete disclosures regarding collaring –

From July 2016 to October 2021, RHF did not accurately and completely disclose to customers its practice of “collaring” market orders by converting them to limit orders, and, from May 2014 to December 2021, RHF's supervisory system was not reasonably designed to achieve compliance with RHF's obligations under FINRA Rules 2210 and 2010 to communicate to customers accurate and fair and balanced information about its order handling practices. As a result, RHF violated FINRA Rules 2210, 3110, and 2010 (both independently and by virtue of the foregoing rule violations), and NASD Rule 3010.

Failure to establish reasonable AML programs and CIP – From January 2017 through November 2021, RHF, and from November 2018 to November 2021, RHS failed to establish and implement reasonable anti-money laundering (AML) programs, which caused the firms to fail to detect, investigate, or report a wide variety of suspicious activity, including manipulative trading, suspicious money movements, and instances where customers' accounts were taken over by third-party hackers. From November 2018 through August 2020, RHF also failed to establish a reasonable customer identification program (CIP). As a result, Robinhood violated FINRA Rules 3310 and 2010.

Failure to reasonably supervise technology used for clearing operations – From March 2020 through at least January 2021, RHS failed to reasonably supervise its clearing technology system despite red flags of processing delays due to increased demand on the system. In January 2021, the clearing technology system experienced severe latency due to significant trading volumes and volatility, which, in turn, impacted RHS's clearing operations and its ability to satisfy certain regulatory obligations. As a result, RHS violated FINRA Rules 3110 and 2010.

Failure to reasonably supervise FINRA registrations – From January 2016 through July 2021, RHF, and, from at least November 2018 through July 2021, RHS, failed to reasonably supervise whether the firms' associated persons had the FINRA registrations required for their job functions. As a result, Robinhood violated NASD Rule 1021, and FINRA Rules 1210, 3110, and 2010.

Failure to reasonably supervise trading in associated persons' accounts – From at least October 2018 until January 2022, Robinhood failed to reasonably supervise trading in associated persons' brokerage accounts. As a result, Robinhood violated FINRA Rules 3110 and 2010.

Failure to reasonably supervise communications by social media influencers – From November 2019 through March 2023, RHF failed to reasonably supervise or retain social media communications that promoted the firm and that were posted by individuals with followings on social media sites (commonly known as "influencers"). Some of those communications included statements that were promissory or not fair and balanced. As a result, RHF violated FINRA Rules 2210, 3110, 4511, and 2010, Exchange Act Section 17(a), and Exchange Act Rule 17a-4.

Improper rejections of ACATS requests – From November 2018 through July 2022, RHS improperly rejected more than 116,000 customer requests to transfer their accounts to another brokerage firm through the Automated Customer Account Transfer Service (ACATS), in violation of FINRA Rules 3110, 11870, and 2010.

Failure to reasonably supervise delivery of account documents to customers – From July 2018 through September 2023, RHF failed to reasonably supervise delivery of its customer relationship summary (Form CRS), account statements, and trade confirmations. As a result, RHF violated FINRA Rules 3110 and 2010.

Maintenance and reporting of inaccurate or incomplete trade, order, and position data – From at least November 2018 through July 2022, RHS failed to reasonably supervise its reporting of accurate and complete trade, order, and position data to FINRA, FINRA trade reporting facilities, the Consolidated Audit Trail (CAT) Central Repository, and the Options Clearing Corporation. These failures impacted tens of thousands of blue sheets (i.e., submissions of trade data to FINRA in an automated format upon request) and other reported data concerning hundreds of millions of trades, orders, or positions, including fractional share transactions, options orders, large options positions, and short interest positions, some of which persisted until April 2024. As a result, RHS violated FINRA Rules 2360(b)(5), 4560, 6182, 6380A, 6622, 6624, 6830, 6893, 7230A, 7330, 8211, 8213, 3110, and 2010. In addition, from July 2019 through February 2022, RHF failed to reasonably supervise the accuracy of its origin code designations, and, as a result, mismarked options orders for millions of contracts with an inaccurate origin code. RHF violated Exchange Act Section 17(a), Exchange Act Rule 17a-3(a)(6)(i), and FINRA Rules 4511, 3110, and 2010.

Failure to prevent trading during halts and failure to reasonably supervise the execution of trades above or below specified price bands during times of extraordinary market volatility – From at least December 2019 through January 2023, RHS improperly effected trades in securities that were subject to trading halts in violation of FINRA Rules 5260, 6121, 3110, and 2010. In addition, from December 2019 through June 2022, RHS failed to establish and maintain a supervisory system reasonably designed to prevent the execution of trades during extraordinary market volatility at prices that were above or below specified price bands. As a result, RHS violated FINRA Rules 6190, 3110, and 2010.

FACTS AND VIOLATIVE CONDUCT

The matters included in this AWC originated from numerous sources, including examinations of both RHF and RHS, cause examinations resulting from customer complaints, FINRA surveillance, and disclosures by the firms pursuant to FINRA Rule 4530.

A. RHF provided customers with inaccurate communications about its practice of converting most market orders into limit orders.

FINRA Rule 2210(d) sets forth content standards for firms' communications with the public, including retail communications. Among other things, FINRA Rule 2210(d)(1)(A) requires that communications be "fair and balanced." Rule 2210(d)(1)(A) further prohibits a member's communication from omitting "any material fact . . . if the omission, in light of the context of the material presented, would cause the communications to be misleading." FINRA Rule 2210(d)(1)(B) prohibits, among other things, a member's communication from containing any "false, exaggerated, unwarranted, promissory or misleading statement or claim." FINRA Rule 2210(d)(1)(D) also requires that member firms "ensure that statements are clear and not misleading within the context in which they are made, and that they provide balanced treatment of risks and potential benefits." Pursuant to FINRA Rule 2210(d)(1)(E), member firms must also "consider the nature of the audience . . . and . . . provide details and explanations appropriate to the audience" to which communications are directed. A violation of FINRA Rule 2210 also constitutes a violation of FINRA Rule 2010, which requires member firms to observe high standards of commercial honor and just and equitable principles of trade in the conduct of their business.

Making misrepresentations or omissions of material fact is an independent violation of FINRA Rule 2010.

FINRA Rule 3110(a) and its predecessor, NASD Rule 3010(a),² require a member firm to establish and maintain a system to supervise the activities of each associated person that is reasonably designed to achieve compliance with applicable securities laws and regulations, and with applicable FINRA and NASD rules. FINRA Rule 3110(b) and its predecessor, NASD Rule 3010(b), require a member firm to establish, maintain, and enforce written procedures to supervise the types of business in which it engages and the activities of its associated persons that are reasonably designed to achieve compliance with applicable securities laws and regulations, and with applicable FINRA and NASD rules. The duty to supervise also includes the responsibility to investigate “red flags” that suggest that misconduct may be occurring and to act upon the results of such investigation. A violation of FINRA Rule 3110 or NASD Rule 3010 also is a violation of FINRA Rule 2010.

1. RHF “collared” market orders.

From May 2014 to at least December 2021, RHF converted market orders, stop orders, and trailing stop orders into limit orders, a practice known as “collaring.” RHF implemented collaring to prevent executions at prices far away from the prices customers saw at the time they placed their orders, and to prevent customers from exceeding their buying power. RHF described collaring in various disclosures made to customers, but those disclosures were not always clear or accurate.

Market orders are generally understood in the securities industry to be orders to buy or sell securities immediately at the best available price.³ Similarly, stop orders and trailing stop orders are generally understood in the securities industry to be market orders that trigger when the applicable stop price is reached.⁴ RHF, however, converted market, stop, and trailing stop orders into limit orders, which are orders to execute a trade at or better than a specified price (limit price),⁵ by applying a limit price that generally was up to 5% below (for sales) or 5% above (for purchases) a reference price.⁶ Thus, if a customer placed a market buy order for a security with a last trade price of $100, RHF placed a buy order with a limit price of $105 ($100 x 1.05).

On the order entry screens of RHF’s mobile application and website, the firm permitted customers to enter orders titled “market order,” “stop order,” and “trailing stop order,” and used the term “market order” to describe the orders. The order entry screens did not describe RHF's collaring practice. After customers submitted their market orders, RHF sent them confirmation emails stating, "You have submitted a market order to [buy/sell] [number] of share(s) of [symbol]. . . ." RHF sent similar messages through its mobile applications, stating, "We've received your order to [buy/sell] . . . at the best available price." If a customer checked his or her order status, RHF's trading platform advised that the customer had a pending "market" buy or sell order.

The firm's customer agreement and use and risk disclosures contained disclosures about collaring beginning in June 2014. For example, the firm's June 2014 Customer Agreement required customers to agree, "I understand that Robinhood Financial does not currently support sending traditional market orders and that Robinhood Financial collars all market orders by using limit orders priced 5% away from the inside market. I further understand that when I send a market buy (or sell) order through Robinhood Financial's trading systems, the trading system generates a limit order priced 5% above (or below) the best offer, and then Robinhood Financial ships the order off to its executing broker." RHF also subsequently added certain disclosures about collaring to its website "Help Center" articles.

2. RHF made inaccurate statements to customers about its collaring practices.

The firm's disclosures describing collaring in its customer agreement, use and risk disclosures, and website "Help Center" articles did not accurately and completely describe RHF's collaring practice from July 2016 to October 2021. As RHF expanded and modified its collaring practices over time, it did not always update these disclosures to reflect these changes. For example:

- Beginning in July 2016, RHF "repriced" collars before routing orders for execution by calculating new collars up to 5% of the prevailing market price.⁷ RHF did not disclose this repricing practice anywhere. This practice also made certain disclosures inaccurate, such as an October 2017 Help Center article that stated that collars would be based on the previous closing price.⁸

- Also beginning in July 2016, when RHF introduced extended hours trading,⁹ it collared all orders, including market sell orders, that customers placed during extended hours trading. RHF did not update all of its disclosures accordingly. For example, from July 2016 until October 2021, RHF's customer agreement disclosed that the firm collared after-hours buy orders, and inaccurately stated that the firm did not collar market sell orders.
- In December 2019, the firm began allowing customers to place fractional buy and sell orders.¹⁰ Although RHF stated in certain disclosures such as its customer agreement that collars could be less than 5%, RHF failed in other disclosures such as Help Center articles to describe its practice of applying collars substantially less than 5%.

RHF cancelled customer market orders that failed to execute by the end of the trading day because the price of the security remained outside the limit price. Millions of orders entered during after hours trading did not fill when the markets for the securities opened at prices more than 5% above the prices the customers would have seen when placing the orders and remained outside the collar during the trading day.¹¹ RHF also cancelled such orders at the end of the trading day. When a customer's order failed to execute, RHF sent a message to the affected customer informing him or her that the order had failed to fill. From at least December 2014 to December 2021, RHF customers sent thousands of inquiries to RHF asking why their orders did not execute. Some customers also cancelled their orders after observing that their orders had failed to execute promptly.

From August 2016 to June 2021, over 8.7 million collared orders did not execute and were canceled, either by RHF at the end of the trading day or by customers. Some of these customers re-entered their market orders and received executions that were either more or less favorable than the market prices at the time they initially entered their orders. Customers paid more (for buys) or received less (for sells) than the market price at the time they initially placed their orders, totaling at least $3.75 million.

As a result of the unclear and/or inaccurate disclosures described in this subsection, RHF violated FINRA Rule 2210 and FINRA Rule 2010, both independently and by virtue of violating FINRA Rule 2210.

⁹ From July 2016 to October 2021, the extended hours trading period was 9:00 am to 9:30 am ET, and 4:00 pm to 6:00 pm ET.

3. RHF failed to establish and maintain a reasonably designed supervisory system and failed to respond to red flags relating to its practice of collaring.

From May 2014 to December 2021, RHF's supervisory system, including its written supervisory procedures (WSPs), was not reasonably designed to achieve compliance with RHF's obligations under FINRA Rules 2210 and 2010 to communicate to customers accurate and fair and balanced information about its order handling practices. The firm's supervisory system, including WSPs, was not reasonably designed to assess whether changes to RHF's order handling practices necessitated updates to retail communications. Nor did RHF establish a system, including procedures, that was reasonably designed to review and revise retail communications if RHF became aware that existing communications were potentially inaccurate or misleading.

Supervisors also failed to reasonably investigate and act when presented with red flags that the firm's retail communications were inaccurate or incomplete. From December 2014 through December 2021, RHF received thousands of inquiries from customers who asked why their market orders failed to execute. Nonetheless, RHF did not revise its disclosures to accurately reflect the firm's collaring practice during that time.

RHF's supervisory system was not reasonably designed to achieve compliance with its obligations under FINRA Rules 2210 and 2010, and therefore, RHF violated NASD Rule 3010 and FINRA Rules 3110 and 2010.

B. Robinhood failed to establish and implement reasonable AML programs.

FINRA Rule 3310 requires member firms to "develop and implement a written anti-money laundering program reasonably designed to achieve and monitor . . . compliance with the requirements of the Bank Secrecy Act (31 U.S.C. 5311, et seq.), and the implementing regulations promulgated thereunder by the Department of the Treasury." A violation of FINRA Rule 3310 also is a violation of FINRA Rule 2010.

In April 2002, FINRA issued Notice to Members 02-21, which advised that "the obligation to develop and implement an AML compliance program is not a 'one size-fits-all' requirement . . . [and] each financial institution should . . . tailor its AML program to fit its business." Notice to Members 02-21 also advised that "[t]o be effective, [a firm's AML program] must reflect the firm's business model and customer base." From January 2017 through November 2021, Robinhood failed to reasonably tailor its AML compliance programs to address the risks posed by the firms' businesses.

1. Robinhood failed to establish and implement policies and procedures that could reasonably be expected to detect and cause the reporting of suspicious transactions.

FINRA Rule 3310(a) requires that firms "[e]stablish and implement policies and procedures that can be reasonably expected to detect and cause the reporting of transactions required under 31 U.S.C. 5318(g) and the implementing regulations thereunder." Pursuant to the implementing regulation, 31 C.F.R. § 1023.320, a transaction must be reported if it is conducted or attempted by, at, or through a broker-dealer, it involves or aggregates funds or other assets of at least $5,000, and the broker-dealer knows, suspects, or has reason to suspect that the transaction (or a pattern of transactions of which the transaction is a part): (i) involves funds derived from illegal activity or is intended or conducted in order to hide or disguise funds or assets derived from illegal activity as part of a plan to violate or evade any Federal law or regulation or to avoid any transaction reporting requirement; (ii) is designed to evade any requirement of the Bank Secrecy Act (BSA); (iii) has no business or apparent lawful purpose or is not the sort in which the particular customer would normally be expected to engage, and the broker-dealer knows of no reasonable explanation for the transaction after examining the available facts; or (iv) involves use of the broker-dealer to facilitate criminal activity.

Notice to Members 02-21 reminded broker-dealers that their AML procedures must address a number of areas, including monitoring “trading and the flow of money into and out of . . . account[s].” Notice to Members 02-21 also reminded broker-dealers “to look for signs of suspicious activity that suggest money laundering,” and that if broker-dealers detect such “red flags,” to “perform additional due diligence.” In May 2019, FINRA published Regulatory Notice 19-18, which further reminded firms of their obligations to monitor for and report suspicious activity, and provided additional red flags for firms to consider incorporating into their AML programs. Regulatory Notice 19-18 further provided that “[u]pon detection of red flags through monitoring, firms should consider whether additional investigation, customer due diligence measures or a SAR [suspicious activity report] filing may be warranted.”

a. Robinhood failed to reasonably monitor for suspicious trading and money movements.

From January 2017 for RHF and November 2018 for RHS, through November 2021, Robinhood’s AML monitoring tools were not reasonably tailored to the firms’ sizes and businesses. During this period, the firms’ trade monitoring tools were not reasonably tailored to detect certain suspicious activity. For example, Robinhood’s monitoring tools to identify prearranged trades effectively excluded low-priced securities, even though such securities may present a heightened risk for manipulation. Robinhood also lacked automated tools or other reasonable means to identify certain types of suspicious transactions, such as executions of out-of-the-money options contracts at prices away from the market.

Robinhood’s tools to detect suspicious money movements were similarly not reasonably tailored. For example, until October 2020, Robinhood had inadequate controls in place to detect whether Robinhood accounts were linked to third-party bank accounts or to monitor transfers to those bank accounts as third-party transfers.¹² During this period, there were more than 19,000 instances in which Robinhood accounts were linked to third-party bank accounts and more than $300 million in transfers to those bank accounts. In addition, the firms' monitoring of non-originated ACH transactions¹³ did not consider certain red flags of identity theft (e.g., deposits identified for persons whose names did not match the name on the account).

b. Robinhood failed to reasonably monitor for suspicious account takeover events.

In December 2011, the U.S. Department of the Treasury's Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (FinCEN) issued an Advisory "to assist financial institutions with identifying account takeover activity and reporting the activity through the filing of Suspicious Activity Reports." The December 2011 Advisory warned that criminals were using several methods to "deliberately exploit a customer's account and, in many instances, to gain seemingly legitimate access to another customer's account." It further explained:

Through ongoing monitoring, financial institutions may identify inconsistencies with a customer's normal account activity that indicates illicit intrusions into a customer's account. Such irregularities might include, but are not limited to, unusual ATM activity, clustered Automated Clearing House (ACH) transactions in different geographic areas, sudden wire transfers, or changes to customer and account profiles.

The December 2011 Advisory also provided guidance to financial institutions on completing SARs on suspected account takeover activity, giving examples of account takeovers involving various "delivery channels" including "computer intrusion," "telephone banking," and "social engineering." Subsequently, in October 2016, FinCEN issued another Advisory to assist financial institutions in determining when account takeover activity and other types of "cyber-events" should be reported. The October 2016 Advisory explained that: "to determine [the] monetary amounts involved in the transactions or attempted transactions, a financial institution should consider in aggregate the funds and assets involved in or put at risk by the cyber-event."

Robinhood did not have reasonable systems to detect and cause the reporting of account takeovers (ATOs) when required, even though ATOs were a major risk. For example, although Robinhood's AML procedures identified certain "reviews" the firms were supposed to undertake to identify potential ATOs—such as reviews related to deposit reversals and inconsistencies in customers' account documentation—the firms did not consistently conduct them. Before Robinhood introduced more systematic surveillance for ATOs in December 2020, Robinhood typically learned of potential ATOs when customers brought them to the firms' attention. In those instances, a separate team within Robinhood was responsible for investigating the potential ATOs, but the firms' policies and procedures for escalating and reviewing potentially suspicious activity did not reasonably address the reporting considerations applicable to ATOs.

c. Robinhood failed to reasonably investigate suspicious activity.

From January 2017 through November 2021, Robinhood's policies and procedures regarding investigating potentially suspicious activity did not reasonably address the risks specific to the firms' business model. Until late 2019, the firms' AML policies listed the titles of numerous daily "reviews" the firms purportedly conducted to monitor for such risks, including potential identity theft, account takeovers, insider trading, manipulative trading, and suspicious money movements. However, Robinhood did not have procedures for conducting those reviews and they were conducted only on an ad hoc basis. In addition, until mid-2019, Robinhood's AML policies failed to address the requirements for filing SARs for cyber events such as ATOs.

In addition, Robinhood's AML programs lacked sufficient staff and resources to reasonably and timely investigate the volume of alerted activity. For example, by January 2020, when the firms' customers were executing nearly one million trades per day, the firms had only two full-time analysts and one supervisor assigned to review trade surveillance alerts. At times in 2020, Robinhood's AML operations staff were taking approximately six months on average after alerts were escalated to complete their AML review. Robinhood also failed for several years to implement a case management system for AML reviews, which, in 2019, the firms had identified as a critical priority. Robinhood did not implement such a system until late 2021, and, as a result, prior to the implementation of the system, the firms only partially reviewed certain AML alerts and completely failed to review others. By August 2018, for example, the firms temporarily stopped using a surveillance report intended to identify suspicious trading in low-priced securities because the file had grown too large to open.

As a result of all the issues described above, Robinhood failed to detect a wide array of suspicious activity including ATOs, potentially manipulative coordinated trading in thinly traded stocks, potential insider trading via aggressive options trading, and suspicious money movements such as small business loan disbursements from the COVID 19 Paycheck Protection Program to non-business accounts. Therefore, Robinhood violated FINRA Rules 3310(a) and 2010.

2. RHF failed to establish and implement a reasonable customer identification program.

FINRA Rule 3310(b) requires member firms to establish and implement policies, procedures, and internal controls reasonably designed to achieve compliance with the BSA and its implementing regulations. One of those regulations requires that firms "establish, document, and maintain a written Customer Identification Program . . . appropriate for [the firm's] size and business," and that the program contain "risk-based procedures for verifying the identity of each customer to the extent reasonable and practicable."¹⁴

In a prior AWC, FINRA found that RHF did not establish or maintain a customer identification program that was appropriate for the firm's size and business from June 1, 2016, to November 10, 2018.¹⁵

Subsequently, between November 2018 and August 2020, RHF approved the opening of approximately 14 million new customer accounts, relying on a largely automated customer identification process that, due to its unreasonable design, sometimes approved accounts where the information provided by the firm's CIP vendors either did not reasonably verify a customer's identity or included evidence of possible identity fraud. For example, during the relevant period, RHF's automated customer identification process considered certain discrepancies identified by the firm's primary identity verification vendor to be "resolved" if the customer successfully linked a bank account to his or her Robinhood account.

In addition, in early 2019, RHF revised its approval process by adding a second identity verification vendor. RHF's logic for evaluating the data provided by the second vendor caused the firm to approve new customer accounts in spite of material discrepancies and red flags of identity theft, such as customer names that could not be verified or that did not match the social security number provided.

In the third quarter of 2020, RHF commissioned a review of its CIP source code. Through that process, the firm identified gaps in its CIP, including certain unreasonable parameters for approving accounts in its automated customer identification process. RHF made changes to its CIP in January 2021 and did not remediate all identified issues until November 2021.

Throughout 2021, RHF conducted a CIP lookback and identified approximately two million accounts that required further review to confirm customers' identities. Following the lookback, the firm closed more than 100,000 accounts after concluding it could not reasonably verify the customers' identities. RHF also identified, and self-disclosed to FINRA, situations in which unknown actors opened several thousand accounts at the firm using stolen identities, and then used those accounts to engage in patterns of suspicious trading.

Therefore, RHF violated FINRA Rules 3310(b) and 2010.

C. RHF failed to reasonably supervise the technology supporting its clearing broker functions.

In 1998, the SEC's Division of Market Regulation issued Staff Legal Bulletin No. 8, explaining that broker-dealers must have sufficient internal system capacity to operate properly during periods of market stress:

¹⁵ AWC No. 2020066971201 (June 2021). In connection with the June 2021 AWC, RHF undertook to retain a third-party consultant to review areas covered by the AWC, including its CIP. The third-party consultant reviewed RHF's CIP for the period August 2020 through August 2021 and made certain recommendations in December 2021, which RHF subsequently implemented.

Because broker-dealers are becoming increasingly reliant on technology to perform trading functions and to route customer orders to markets, these problems could be more severe during future periods of high trading volume. Broker-dealers therefore need to take steps to prevent their operational systems from being overwhelmed by periodic spikes in systems message traffic due to high volume. In particular, broker-dealers should not merely have sufficient systems capacity to handle average-to-heavy loads. Rather, broker-dealers should have the systems capacity to handle exceptional loads of several times the average trading volume.

The SEC also “emphasize[d] to broker-dealers the importance of having adequate capacity to handle high volume or high volatility trading days, and conducting capacity planning on a regular basis.”

RHS uses its proprietary clearing and settlement system, Sickle, to conduct its clearing operations. Sickle is a “trading-critical” technology system without which RHS cannot clear trades for RHF, including all customer trades. RHS relies on Sickle to, among other things, process daily trading and money movement activity in a nightly process known as “batch.” RHS uses Sickle and the batch process to, for example: (1) compute RHF customer positions and maintain its client and general ledgers and stock record pursuant to Exchange Act Rule 17a-3; (2) generate the options spread file that is used to calculate the firm’s options clearing deposit; (3) process ACATS transfers pursuant to FINRA Rule 11870; (4) generate margin calls and assign margin-related trading restrictions pursuant to FINRA Rule 4210; (5) segregate securities and know its securities available for lending pursuant to Exchange Act Rule 15c3-3; and (6) generate reports or files used to comply with various regulatory requirements. As such, RHS’s supervision of Sickle is critical to the firm’s ability to satisfy its regulatory obligations as a FINRA member firm and SEC-registered broker-dealer.

From March 2020 through at least January 2021, despite red flags of processing delays due to increased demand on Sickle, RHS failed to reasonably supervise Sickle, which, in turn, at times impacted the firm’s clearing operations and its ability to satisfy certain regulatory obligations.

1. RHS was on notice that the technology supporting its clearing operations was nearing capacity limits.

To support RHS’s clearing operations, Sickle uses a series of “runners” to process various “events” (for example, orders, executions, or ACH transfers). Runners have threshold levels of events per second that they can process. A runner will therefore experience delay processing the activity, or “lag,” if events are sent for processing at a combined rate that exceeds the runner’s processing capabilities. This is known as “runner lag.” Runner lag can occur during periods of high trading volume and market volatility. If Sickle is experiencing sustained runner lag, RHS’s clearing operations, including the nightly batch process, may be delayed, which may impact RHS’s ability to satisfy certain regulatory obligations.

RHS was on notice by March 2020 that runner lag could delay RHS's clearing operations and the start of the overnight batch process. Starting that month, Sickle experienced runner lag on numerous occasions. These instances of runner lag demonstrated that the lag could delay RHS's clearing operations and even grow long enough on a given day to delay the start of the overnight batch process. Starting in May 2020, RHS took steps to enhance Sickle, including its capacity, but by late 2020, RHS forecasted that unless Sickle was reengineered, it could not handle more than 1.4 times then-current volume. In early January 2021, internal projections raised the possibility that, under certain circumstances, trading volume could double within the month. The following examples of runner lag occurred throughout 2020 and January 2021:

- On six occasions in March 2020, during a period of extraordinary market volatility, runner lag exceeded five hours. On March 9, 2020, runner lag still had not caught up by the time RHS closed its trading day at 6:00 pm ET.
- On June 5, 2020, high event volume caused Sickle's runner to lag for nearly two hours.
- On September 2, 2020, runner lag persisted for five hours and 32 minutes, in part due to increased trading activity surrounding two stock splits.
- On January 4, 2021, a spike in the price of Bitcoin and an associated influx of trades caused runner lag of one hour and 19 minutes, which put Sickle in danger of being unable to process all the events in a reasonable time for cash sweep¹⁶ and ACATS operations.
- On January 11, 2021, RHS experienced runner lag caused by high volume, causing ACATS and other clearing operations to be delayed such that they could not begin until 2:30 pm ET.
- On January 25, 2021, an extreme surge in customer trading delayed the start of the nightly batch process and nearly caused RHS to miss the 9:30 pm ET deadline to submit the options spread file used to calculate RHS's options clearing deposit. A senior director at RHS responsible for the firm's general clearing operations viewed this as being directly caused by Robinhood's volume.
- As a result of runner lag, RHS began operations on one day in January 2021 without certain information indicating which securities were available for lending pursuant to Exchange Act Rule 15c3-3.
- At various times in January 2021, as a result of runner lag, there were delays in RHS's review and approval of ACATS requests pursuant to FINRA Rule 11870, which resulted in, among other things, incorrect share movements, transfer delays, and double sellouts.

2. RHS failed to reasonably supervise the technology supporting the firm's clearing operations.

From March 2020 through at least January 2021, RHS failed to reasonably supervise the Sickie system, which was critical to its clearing operations and ability to satisfy regulatory obligations. First, RHS did not capacity or load test the Sickie runner's ability to handle increased trading volume. Second, RHS did not respond reasonably to red flags of processing delays due to increased demand on Sickie, including repeated instances of hours-long runner lag.

Therefore, RHS violated FINRA Rules 3110 and 2010.

D. Robinhood failed to reasonably supervise associated persons to achieve compliance with FINRA registration requirements.

FINRA Rule 1210, like its predecessor NASD Rule 1021, requires that all persons engaged in the securities business of a member be registered with FINRA in the appropriate capacity as specified in FINRA Rule 1220 (Registration Categories).¹⁷ Rule 1210 also specifies that "[s]uch person shall not be qualified to function in any registered capacity other than that for which the person is registered, unless otherwise stated in the rules." A violation of NASD Rule 1021 or FINRA Rule 1210 also is a violation of FINRA Rule 2010.

FINRA Rule 1220(a)(1) defines a "principal" as one who is "actively engaged in the management of the member's investment banking or securities business, such as supervision, solicitation, conduct of business in securities or the training of persons associated with a member for any of these functions." This includes "management of, and the implementation of corporate policies related to, such business" as well as "managerial decision-making authority with respect to the member's . . . securities business."

FINRA Rule 1220(b)(3) defines an "Operations Professional" as a "covered person" (meaning senior management and persons designated as supervisors or responsible for approving work) responsible for a "covered function" (including client onboarding, financial controls, and defining and approving business requirements for sales and trading systems or for business security requirements and policies for information technology). Regulatory Notice 11-33 provides that "Member firms must determine, based on a person's activities and responsibilities, whether such person would be considered a covered person and subject to the requirements for Operations Professionals." Regulatory Notice 11-33 further provides that any person who meets the definition of a covered person and engages in one or more covered functions "on behalf of a member firm

(regardless of their employing entity, e.g., a member firm, an affiliate or a third-party service provider) must register as an Operations Professional.”

From January 2016 through July 2021, Robinhood’s WSPs and supervisory systems for registration were not reasonably designed. Prior to July 2021, Robinhood’s supervisory system was not reasonably designed to ensure that decisions were reviewed and approved by appropriately licensed supervisors. Its WSPs failed to identify appropriately licensed principals or Operations Professionals to supervise aspects of its business. The WSPs also failed to describe how the firms should assess whether certain functions performed by the firms’ parent company, including roles in engineering, product, and information security, required supervision by licensed principals or Operations Professionals.

Further, Robinhood did not have reasonable systems for identifying employees whose job function required registration as a Principal or Operations Professional. Prior to 2018, Robinhood solely relied on reviews of new hires by the firms’ chief compliance officer to identify employees requiring registration. Beginning in January 2018, Robinhood relied on department managers to approve employees who sought to obtain FINRA registrations. But the firms did not have any system to systematically assess whether employees’ job functions required registration, and the firms failed to provide guidance about how to make that determination.

As a result of these deficiencies, several employees at Robinhood had job responsibilities for which they did not have the required FINRA registrations during the relevant period.

Therefore, Robinhood violated NASD Rule 1021, and FINRA Rules 1210, 3110, and 2010.

E. Robinhood failed to reasonably supervise trading in associated persons’ accounts.

FINRA Rule 3110(d)(1) requires that a firm’s supervisory procedures include:

a process for the review of securities transactions that are reasonably designed to identify trades that may violate the provisions of the Exchange Act, the rules thereunder, or FINRA rules prohibiting insider trading and manipulative and deceptive device[s] that are effected for the . . . accounts introduced and carried by the member in which a person associated with the member has a beneficial interest or the authority to make investment decisions; [and] accounts of a person associated with the member that are disclosed to the member pursuant to FINRA Rule 3210[.]

FINRA Rule 3210 requires associated persons to obtain the prior written consent of their employer firm before opening or establishing an account at another member.

Until January 2022, Robinhood did not systematically identify non-registered employees and contractors who should be treated as associated persons based on their job duties. From at least October 2018 until December 2019, Robinhood limited its review of employees’ accounts held at other broker-dealers to accounts held by its registered representatives and not its associated persons. As a result, Robinhood excluded over 200 associated, non-registered persons from outside account reviews. Moreover, during this time, Robinhood conducted a manual, daily review of all full-time employees' accounts that were maintained at Robinhood, but excluded approximately 200 contractors who were associated persons based on their job duties.

From October 2018 until December 2019, Robinhood's reviews of employees' brokerage accounts were also unreasonable. First, Robinhood relied on employees to self-disclose their Robinhood accounts, which they were instructed to do during onboarding, or upon account opening. Subsequent to onboarding or account opening, Robinhood did not take steps to identify undisclosed accounts and therefore failed to identify a significant number of employee accounts maintained at Robinhood. Second, Robinhood at times failed to receive the paper statements on which the firms relied to conduct periodic outside brokerage account reviews. Third, Robinhood failed to document that the firms conducted periodic outside account reviews from May 2018 through December 2019 and daily Robinhood account reviews from May 2018 until June 2019.

In January 2020, Robinhood implemented an automated system to review the trading activity of registered representatives and RHF customer service personnel. The automated system, however, excluded other Robinhood employees and contractors who qualified as associated persons based on their job duties. Between January 2020 and January 2022, Robinhood's reviews excluded outside brokerage accounts held by over 1,800 individuals who qualified as non-registered associated persons. Beginning in August 2021 and continuing through January 2022, Robinhood expanded the scope of the automated system to cover additional categories of associated persons based on job duties.

Moreover, from January 2020 until May 2021, the data feed for outside accounts held at a large online broker-dealer was improperly configured by Robinhood's automated system, so it failed to include these accounts as part of the firms' automated reviews until the issue was identified in May 2021. As a result, Robinhood excluded up to 4,320 accounts from the firms' contemporaneous automated review.¹⁸

Therefore, from at least October 2018 until January 2022, Robinhood failed to review brokerage accounts held by the associated persons described above and conducted unreasonable reviews of other brokerage accounts.

F. RHF failed to reasonably supervise or retain social media communications promoting the firm.

As described above, FINRA Rule 2210(d)(1) sets forth content standards that apply to all member communications, including retail communications. FINRA Rule 2210(a)(5) defines retail communication as any written (including electronic) communication that is distributed or made available to more than 25 retail investors within any 30 calendar-day period.

¹⁸ The large majority of the 4,320 excluded accounts related to employee stock plans.

FINRA Rule 2210(b)(1)(A) requires that an appropriately qualified registered principal of a member firm approve each retail communication before the earlier of its use or filing with FINRA's Advertising Regulation Department.¹⁹

In addition, the Exchange Act, its accompanying rules, and FINRA rules require firms to preserve certain records related to retail communications. Exchange Act Section 17(a)(1) requires registered broker-dealers to make and keep for prescribed periods such records, furnish such copies thereof, and make and disseminate such reports as the Commission deems "necessary or appropriate in the public interest, for the protection of investors or otherwise in furtherance of the purposes of" the Exchange Act. Exchange Act Rule 17a-4(b)(4) requires every registered broker-dealer to preserve for at least three years "all communications which are subject to rules of a self-regulatory organization of which the member, broker or dealer is a member regarding communications with the public." FINRA Rule 2210(b)(4)(A) requires that member firms maintain all retail communications for the period prescribed under the Exchange Act and maintain a record of, among other things: (1) the dates of first and last use of such communication; and (2) the name of any registered principal who approved the communication and the date that approval was given. FINRA Rule 4511 requires member firms to "preserve books and records as required under the FINRA rules, the Exchange Act and the applicable Exchange Act rules."

A violation of Exchange Act Section 17(a), Exchange Act Rule 17a-4, and FINRA Rule 4511 is also a violation of FINRA Rule 2010.

In Regulatory Notices 10-06 and 17-18, FINRA stated that third parties' social media posts would constitute retail communications subject to FINRA Rule 2210 if a member firm either (1) paid for or was involved in the preparation of the content prior to posting (which the Notices referred to as "entanglement") or (2) explicitly or implicitly endorsed or approved the content (which the Notices referred to as "adoption"). Regulatory Notice 17-18 also stated that firms should clearly identify as advertisements any communications that take the form of comments or posts by influencers and include the firm's name as well as any other information required for compliance with FINRA Rule 2210.

From November 2019 through March 2023, RHF paid certain influencers who promoted the firm in social media communications an amount for every new account that was opened and funded by the customer using a unique link provided by RHF. RHF did not limit the compensation these influencers could earn, and the posts that promoted the firm were widely distributed. During this period, customers opened at least 25,000 new accounts using the referral links provided by RHF, resulting in the firm paying approximately 75 influencers at least $2.7 million.

Influencers' posts promoting RHF were retail communications of RHF subject to FINRA Rule 2210. RHF provided influencers with guidance regarding "requirements applicable to public-facing communications," including "potential terms and phrases" that influencers should "carefully consider[] and potentially avoid[], when communicating with the public," including "always" and "never." RHF's standard agreement with influencers provided that all content that was produced and publicly displayed in connection with the agreement and that identified Robinhood or its services must be reviewed and pre-approved. Nonetheless, during the relevant period, the firm did not have a registered principal review and approve influencers' static content (such as static videos) prior to their publication, nor did it supervise and review communications posted in an online interactive electronic forum in the same manner as required for supervising and reviewing correspondence, pursuant to FINRA Rule 3110(b) and FINRA Rule 3110 Supplemental Material .06 through .09. In addition, RHF did not maintain records of communications posted by influencers that promoted the firm, or the dates they were used.

Instead, RHF utilized a third-party vendor to monitor the content of influencers' posts promoting the firm after they were published, which did not comport with FINRA Rule 2210(b)'s requirement that the firm review and approve static content prior to publication. In certain circumstances, the vendor required influencers to make edits to their social media posts after they were already published. However, that review failed to identify that, during the relevant period, influencers published social media posts about the firm's products and services that included statements that were misleading, exaggerated, promissory, and not fair and balanced. For example, one influencer, in a video concerning purportedly high dividend earning stocks that he posted on a social media platform, stated, "[the] dividend income is just going to continue increasing and increasing and increasing to where eventually it will be able to pay all of your costs so you could live financially free." Influencers also posted communications claiming that RHF was completely free without disclosing that other fees may apply, including regulatory and Robinhood Gold membership fees.²⁰ For example, an influencer posted multiple times that RHF was free, including stating that it was "100% free. Not even kidding." Finally, many influencers' social media posts promoting the firm failed to clearly identify the communications as paid advertisements.

During the relevant period, RHF did not establish, maintain, or enforce a system, including WSPs, reasonably designed to supervise retail communications promoting the firm posted by influencers. RHF did not require the firm to review or approve these influencers' static posts prior to posting, and in fact, the firm did not prereview or preapprove such posts. Moreover, RHF did not have a system, including WSPs, reasonably designed to supervise and review retail communications posted in an online interactive electronic forum in the same manner as required for supervising and reviewing correspondence pursuant to FINRA Rule 3110(b) and FINRA Rule 3110 Supplemental Material .06 through .09. The firm also did not reasonably supervise its retail communications concerning the firm posted by these influencers for compliance with FINRA Rule 2210(d)(1). Finally, the firm did not have a supervisory system reasonably designed to preserve records of these influencers' social media posts or their dates of use, as required by Exchange Act Section 17(a), Exchange Act Rule 17a-4, and FINRA Rules 2210(b)(4) and 4511. In February 2022, RHF revised its system for supervising retail communications posted by these influencers, and in March 2023, RHF ended its influencer program as described above.

Therefore, RHF violated Exchange Act Section 17(a), Exchange Act Rule 17a-4, and FINRA Rules 2210, 4511, 3110, and 2010.

G. RHS improperly rejected customer requests to transfer their entire accounts via the ACATS process.

Transfers of customer securities or a customer's entire account from one brokerage firm to another primarily occur through the Automated Customer Account Transfer Service (ACATS), which is an electronic system to transfer assets or accounts from one broker-dealer to another.

FINRA Rule 11870(a)(1) provides:

When a customer whose securities account is carried by a member (the "carrying member") wishes to transfer securities account assets, in whole or in specifically designated part, to another member (the "receiving member") and gives authorized instructions to the receiving member, both members must expedite and coordinate activities with respect to the transfer.

FINRA Rule 11870(d) enumerates the limited exceptions that a firm may take to a customer's transfer request, such as discrepancies between the transfer instructions and the firm's records, duplicate requests, or where the account has no transferrable assets. A violation of FINRA Rule 11870 is also a violation of FINRA Rule 2010.

Between November 2018, when the firm began processing customer ACATS requests, and July 2022, RHS improperly rejected requests by RHF customers seeking to transfer their entire accounts to another broker-dealer when one or more of the following conditions existed at the time of the transfer request:

- Until March 2020, RHS rejected a customer's request to transfer all their assets if the customer's brokerage account had unsettled transactions (e.g., if a security had been sold but remained in the customer's account until the trade settled);
- Until March 2021, RHS rejected a customer's request to transfer all their assets and close their brokerage account if the customer also maintained a separate account at its affiliate Robinhood Crypto, LLC (RHC), and had a crypto asset balance;²¹

- Until July 2022, RHS rejected a customer's request to transfer all of their assets if the customer's brokerage account held options that would expire within five days.

FINRA Rule 11870, however, does not permit RHS to reject a customer's ACATS request due to the presence of unsettled transactions, crypto asset holdings, or expiring options. In total, between November 2018 and July 2022, RHS improperly rejected approximately 116,000 requests to transfer their accounts in full via ACATS for these reasons.

Between November 2018 and August 2020, RHS's supervisory system for ACATS was limited to reviewing samples of accepted ACATS transfer instructions to verify that the transfer was completed. During this period, the firm did not review exceptions to customer outgoing ACATS transfer instructions for compliance with FINRA Rule 11870.

In September 2020, RHS instituted a review of rejected ACATS requests to confirm that reasons for rejections were valid. However, in practice, the firm continued to reject ACATS requests due to the presence of crypto asset holdings or expiring options until July 2022.

Therefore, RHS violated FINRA Rules 11870, 3110, and 2010.

H. RHF failed to reasonably supervise delivery of account statements, trade confirmations, and the firm's Form CRS.

Exchange Act Rule 10b-10, promulgated under Section 10(b) of the Exchange Act, requires broker-dealers that effect securities transactions for customers to provide customers a confirmation, at or before completion of each transaction, disclosing certain basic terms of the transaction, such as the identity, price, number of shares of the security bought or sold, and the execution capacity of the broker-dealer. FINRA Rule 2232(a) requires members, at or before the completion of any transaction in any security effected for or with an account of a customer, to provide such customer with written confirmations that conform with the requirements of Exchange Act Rule 10b-10.

Trade confirmations protect investors who buy or sell securities through broker-dealers by, among other things, alerting them to potential conflicts of interest with their broker-dealers and providing them the means to verify the terms of their transactions and evaluate transaction costs and the quality of their broker-dealers' executions.

²¹ At that time, customers could only trade or hold crypto assets in an RHC account. RHC is not a broker-dealer or a member of FINRA. Such crypto assets would have been inaccessible to the customer if the brokerage account were closed.

FINRA Rule 2231, like its predecessor NASD Rule 2340, requires each general securities member firm to send a statement of account to each customer that contains certain specific information.²²

On June 5, 2019, the SEC adopted Form CRS and rules creating new requirements—which include requirements to prepare and deliver the Form CRS—for SEC-registered broker-dealers offering services to a retail investor. The compliance date for Form CRS was June 30, 2020.

Form CRS provides customers with information about the types of services the firm offers; the fees, costs, conflicts of interest, and required standard of conduct associated with those services; whether the firm and its investment professionals have reportable legal or disciplinary history; and how to get more information about the firm.

Form CRS also includes required “conversation starters” to help begin a discussion with a broker-dealer about the relationship, including their services, fees, costs, conflicts, and disciplinary information.

Exchange Act Rule 17a-14—titled “Form CRS, for preparation, filing and delivery of Form CRS”—requires broker-dealers offering services to a retail investor to prepare a Form CRS in accordance with the instructions in Form CRS, and to comply with requirements related to filing, amending, delivering, and posting the Form CRS to the firm’s public website.

From July 2018 through September 2023, RHF failed to establish, maintain, and enforce a supervisory system, including WSPs, reasonably designed to achieve compliance with its obligations under the Exchange Act and FINRA Rules to deliver the above-described required account documents. While RHF delivered required documents by mail and email, the firm had inaccurate mailing and email addresses for certain customers. The firm received thousands of return-to-sender notifications for undelivered mail and bounce-back notifications for undelivered email, which should have alerted the firm that it may not be meeting its delivery obligations. RHF, however, took no steps until February 2022 to update its supervisory system, including its WSPs, to address delivery of required account documents to customers. In February 2022, the firm began to take steps to address specific delivery failures, such as sending mobile application messages and paper disclosures to customers for whom the firm received an email bounce-back for certain mailings. Moreover, between February 2022 and September 2023, RHF implemented new supervisory policies and procedures to address these issues. In October 2023, RHF disclosed to FINRA that it had failed to transmit the above-described documents to certain customers by mail and email.

Therefore, RHF violated FINRA Rules 3110 and 2010.

²² FINRA Rule 2231 superseded NASD Rule 2340 on May 8, 2019.

I. Robinhood failed to reasonably supervise the firms' maintenance and reporting of accurate and complete trade, order, and position data.

1. RHS submitted tens of thousands of inaccurate blue sheets and failed to reasonably supervise its blue sheet submissions.

- a. RHS submitted more than 17,200 inaccurate or incomplete blue sheets to FINRA, impacting more than 216.4 million transactions.

FINRA rules require that member firms submit trade data in an automated format (commonly known as “blue sheets”) when requested by FINRA and other regulators. Regulators request blue sheets to assist them in investigating potential trading violations, including, for example, market manipulation and insider trading. Blue sheets provide regulators with critical information about transactions, including the name of the account owner, the nature of the transaction (whether it was a purchase, sale, or short sale), and the price at which the transaction occurred. It is therefore an essential and fundamental obligation of each member firm to provide complete, accurate, and timely blue sheets.

FINRA Rules 8211 and 8213 require that member firms submit trade data, as prescribed in FINRA Rule 8211, to FINRA upon request. A violation of FINRA Rules 8211 or 8213 also constitutes a violation of FINRA Rule 2010.

From at least November 2018 through April 2024, RHS submitted more than 17,200 blue sheets to FINRA that misreported data for more than 216.4 million transactions as a result of 11 different types of errors.²³ For some trades, RHS supplied incorrect or incomplete information about transactions on its blue sheets. RHS also omitted certain transactions from blue sheet responses and included certain duplicate trades:

- Used incorrect codes (“HOOD” instead of “CRFN”) to identify itself as the primary party on more than 216.4 million transactions;
- Used incorrect codes (“RHS”) as the contra party to transactions that RHS executed for customer accounts introduced to it by RHF instead of using RHS’s MPID, CRD, or OCC clearing number in almost 81.7 million transactions;
- Omitted more than 35.6 million contra transactions executed by RHS in its own accounts to facilitate customer trading;
- Incorrectly reported more than 38.1 million fractional share transactions as proprietary transactions when the firm handled them on a riskless principal basis;

- Incorrectly identified the exchange on which more than 10.2 million option transactions were executed, and also incorrectly identified the contra party on those transactions;
- Incorrectly reported execution times for more than 40.9 million transactions; and
- Reported more than 3.6 million duplicate transactions.

Therefore, RHS violated FINRA Rules 8211, 8213, and 2010.

b. RHS failed to reasonably supervise the submission of blue sheets.

From at least November 2018 through July 2022, RHS's supervisory system, including its WSPs, was not reasonably designed to achieve compliance with FINRA Rules 8211 and 8213 relating to blue sheets. Before September 2021, RHS reviewed a small sample of blue sheet submissions and transactions in an attempt to verify that they were timely submitted and in the correct format. The review, however, included only five transactions per week, and only included a portion of submitted data fields. Moreover, this review was not described in the firm's WSPs, and the WSPs did not provide guidance about the steps the firm should take to verify that blue sheet submissions were accurate. In September 2021, RHS instituted new WSPs describing the firm's process for verifying that the firm timely submitted blue sheets in the correct format. However, RHS still lacked a system, including WSPs, reasonably designed to verify the accuracy of the firm's blue sheet submissions; rather, the firm continued to review only an unreasonably small sample of transactions (five transactions per week, and only a limited number of data fields) to check for accuracy.

Therefore, RHS violated FINRA Rule 3110 and 2010.

2. RHS failed to report, or inaccurately reported, hundreds of millions of fractional share transactions.

a. RHS failed to report, or inaccurately reported, to trade reporting facilities hundreds of millions of fractional share trades.

In December 2019, RHF began offering fractional share trading to non-employee customers, and by March 2021, more than 60% of Robinhood customers had traded fractional shares.

RHS erroneously believed that it did not have trade reporting obligations for principal and riskless principal fractional share orders until September 2020, when FINRA notified the firm.²⁴ As a result, the firm committed two types of reporting violations: trade reporting violations and CAT reporting violations.

FINRA Rules 6380A and 6622 set forth requirements for reporting transactions in national market system (NMS) stocks to the FINRA/NASDAQ Trade Reporting Facility (FN TRF), and OTC equity securities to the Over-the-Counter (OTC) Reporting Facility (ORF) (collectively, the TRFs), respectively. Rules 6380A(b) and 6622(b) provide that (1) in transactions between two FINRA members, the executing party shall report the trade; and (2) in transactions between a FINRA member and a non-member or customer, the member shall report the trade. Trades involving fractional shares, such as a trade for less than one share or a trade for 10.5 shares, are subject to FINRA's trade reporting rules.

FINRA Rules 6380A and 6622 require the submission of one of two types of transaction reports—a tape report and a non-tape report—depending upon the purpose of the report. A tape report is a trade report that is submitted to a TRF and reported to and publicly disseminated by the exclusive Securities Information Processor (SIP). Non-tape reports include regulatory reports submitted to FINRA for regulatory purposes only that are not publicly disseminated.

FINRA Rules 6380A(d)(3) and 6622(d)(3) set forth the requirements for reporting the member's capacity for principal and riskless principal transactions. Members must report principal transactions with a customer by submitting a tape report with a principal capacity indicator. Trades executed in a principal capacity are also subject to a regulatory transaction fee.

Members may report to a TRF riskless principal transactions by submitting either (1) a tape report with a riskless principal capacity indicator, or (2) a tape report with a capacity of principal to reflect the initial leg of the transaction, and a non-tape report with a riskless principal capacity indicator to reflect the offsetting riskless leg of the transaction. For such trades, the member executing the trade in a riskless principal capacity is obligated to ensure its capacity is accurately reported.²⁵

FINRA Rules 7230A(d) and 7330(d) set forth additional requirements regarding information that must be reported for each transaction reported to the FN TRF or the ORF, respectively. Among other things, members must report (1) the unit price, excluding commissions, mark-ups or mark-downs; (2) the time of execution; and (3) the contra side executing broker.

FINRA Rules 6182 and 6624 provide that “[p]ursuant to applicable trade reporting rules, members must indicate on trade reports submitted to FINRA whether a transaction is a short sale transaction” when reporting to the FN TRF or the ORF, respectively. FINRA Rules 7230A(d)(6) and 7330(d)(6) also provide that members must report to the FN TRF or the ORF “where applicable, a symbol indicating that the transaction is a sell short or an order to buy (sell) a security, purchases (sells) the security as principal and satisfies the original order by selling (buying) as principal at the same price (the offsetting “riskless” leg). See Trade Reporting Frequently Asked Questions, FAQ 302.1, <https://www.finra.org/filing-reporting/market-transparency-reporting/trade-reporting-faq>.

sell short exempt trade from the reporting member perspective or contra side perspective.” A violation of FINRA’s trade reporting rules is also a violation of FINRA Rule 2010.

From December 2019 to February 2021, RHS failed to tape report to the FN TRF over 128 million fractional share trades it executed on a principal basis.²⁶ In May 2020, RHS began offering customers OTC fractional and non-fractional share trading in a select number of American Depositary Receipts (ADR).²⁷ From that time until August 2021, the firm failed to report to the ORF approximately 760,000 fractional trades executed on a principal basis. In addition, since March 2020, RHS allowed customers to place dollar-based (which frequently involved fractional shares) recurring orders for equity securities. From March 2020 until November 2022, RHS also failed to report over 270,000 fractional share trades executed on a principal basis relating to recurring investments.

From December 2019 through June 2021, in 320 million instances, RHS failed to submit non-tape reports correcting its capacity on tape reports submitted by the executing broker that misidentified RHS’s capacity as principal. In addition, from May 2020 to August 2021, the firm failed to submit over one million non-tape trade reports to the ORF for fractional share trades.

Even after RHS began reporting fractional share trades in January 2021, it submitted over 160 million inaccurate trade reports. Specifically, from January 2021 through July 2021, RHS reported approximately 87.5 million transactions with a price-override indicator that it incorrectly appended due to a coding error.²⁸ Due to misunderstandings regarding the information it was required to report, from January 2021 through July 2021, RHS reported approximately 67.7 million transactions without identifying RHS as the contra party. In addition, from January 2021 through November 2023, RHS reported over six million transactions with inaccurate execution times.

Furthermore, in certain circumstances, to facilitate fractional share trades, RHS incurred intra-day net short positions. RHS was unaware that those fractional trades constituted short sales until March 2022. As a result, from January 2021, when it first began reporting trades, through April 2023, RHS reported tens of millions of short sale transactions to the TRFs without the required short sale indicator.

Therefore, RHS violated FINRA Rules 6182, 6380A, 6622, 6624, 7230A, 7330, and 2010.

²⁷ RHS’s customers could conduct fractional share trading in approximately 275 ADRs.

The SEC adopted Rule 613 under the Exchange Act to create the CAT, a consolidated audit trail that would substantially enhance the ability of the self-regulatory organizations and the SEC to oversee the national securities markets and fulfill their responsibilities under the federal securities laws. In November 2016, the SEC approved a CAT national market system (NMS) Plan. In March 2017, the SEC approved FINRA's proposal to adopt FINRA Rule 6800 Series to implement the CAT NMS Plan.

Beginning June 22, 2020, large industry members that originated or received an order involving NMS or OTC equity securities were required to report data to the CAT Central Repository and comply with Rule 613 of Exchange Act Regulation NMS and the FINRA Rule 6800 series. All customer and proprietary trading activity, including market-making activity, is subject to CAT reporting. There are no exclusions or exemptions of any kind for type of firm or type of trading activity.

CAT data is an integral part of FINRA's automated market surveillance program. FINRA uses CAT data to conduct cross-market surveillance in support of FINRA's and registered equities and options exchanges' statutory obligations. Inaccurate, incomplete, or untimely transaction and order reporting can negatively affect the regulatory audit trail and the quality of FINRA's surveillance patterns as well as FINRA's ability to accurately reconstruct market events.

FINRA Rule 6830(a) requires each member to record and electronically report to the CAT Central Repository specific details for each order and each reportable event, as applicable. Reportable event is defined to include, but is not limited to, the original receipt or origination, modification, cancellation, routing, execution (in whole or in part) and allocation of an order, and receipt of a routed order. FINRA Rule 6893(a) requires members to "record and report data to the Central Repository as required by this Rule Series in a manner that ensures the timeliness, accuracy, integrity and completeness of such data." A violation of FINRA Rules 6830 and 6893 also is a violation of FINRA Rule 2010.

RHS failed to report, or inaccurately reported, hundreds of millions of reportable events, primarily concerning fractional share transactions. During the period June 22, 2020, through February 23, 2021, RHS:

- Improperly applied a reporting exception code to trade events reported for approximately 115 million fractional share trades that it executed in a principal capacity to the CAT Central Repository in violation of FINRA Rule 6830(a)(2)(F);
- Inaccurately reported to the CAT Central Repository approximately 101 million fractional share transactions that it executed in a riskless principal capacity by submitting trade events instead of order fulfillment events, as required by FINRA Rule 6830(a)(2)(F);

- Inaccurately reported approximately 93 million new order events to the CAT Central Repository using the account holder type “I” (for individual accounts) rather than “P” (for proprietary accounts); and
- Failed to report to the CAT Central Repository approximately 23 million new order events for representative orders related to riskless principal transactions involving fractional shares, as required by FINRA Rule 6830(a)(1)(A).

Moreover, from June 22, 2020, through November 23, 2023, RHS reported to the CAT Central Repository over 487 million reportable events with inaccurate execution times, in violation of FINRA Rule 6830(a)(1)(E)(iii). Specifically, for fractional trades that were aggregated for execution in a riskless principal capacity, RHS reported the execution time of the trade executed with the street rather than the execution time of the riskless principal transaction between RHS and the customer. During this period, RHS also failed to report, or inaccurately reported, to the CAT Central Repository millions of reportable events. For example, RHS inaccurately reported short sales as long sales, and failed to report the receipt of customer orders from RHF related to recurring customer investments.²⁹

Therefore, RHS violated FINRA Rules 6830, 6893, and 2010.

- c. RHS failed to establish supervisory systems applicable to reporting for its fractional share program that were reasonably designed to achieve compliance with FINRA rules.

From the inception of RHS’s fractional share business in December 2019 until April 2021, the firm’s WSPs erroneously indicated that the firm had no obligation to report fractional share trades to the TRFs. In May 2021, RHS established a supervisory system, including WSPs, regarding compliance with FINRA’s trade reporting rules applicable to fractional share trading. However, that system failed to require reasonable supervisory reviews of the accuracy of reports to the TRFs concerning execution times, capacity, short sales, the identity of contra parties, and the use of price-override indicators.

RHS also did not establish a supervisory system or procedures relating to CAT reporting until August 2020, after the June 22, 2020, effective date for CAT reporting. Once implemented, RHS’s supervisory system, including written procedures, was not reasonably designed to achieve compliance with FINRA rules concerning CAT reporting. In Regulatory Notice 20-31, FINRA provided that “reasonably designed written supervisory procedures should address the CAT Rules and . . . should incorporate frequent reviews by the firm of the data posted on the CAT Reporter Portal.” FINRA further stated:

Members’ written supervisory procedures also must be reasonably designed to ensure that the data reported by them or on their behalf is transmitted in a timely fashion and that it is complete and accurate. Among other things, firms should review this data to verify that: (1) the data is sent to CAT by 0800 (8:00 a.m. Eastern Time) the following Trading Day; (2) the data is complete with no missing events; and (3) the data is accurate with all of the appropriate data fields reported correctly. It will not be sufficient for firms to only review rejected data.

At various times between August 2020 and November 2023, RHS failed to conduct reasonable supervisory reviews concerning the accuracy of reports to the CAT Central Repository with respect to, among others, the use of reporting exception codes, the accuracy of reported account holder types for proprietary and customer orders, as well as execution times, capacity, and short sales.

Therefore, RHS violated FINRA Rules 3110 and 2010.

3. RHF mismarked options orders for millions of contracts with an inaccurate origin code.

a. RHF mismarked millions of options orders.

Exchange Act Rule 17a-3(a)(6)(i) requires broker-dealers to make and keep a memorandum of each brokerage order that contains the terms and conditions of the order. Inherent in the obligation to make and preserve books and records is the requirement that they be accurate. Because execution priority and fees depend on the origin code of an order, origin codes constitute a term and condition of the order.

A violation of Exchange Act Rule 17a-3 also constitutes a violation of FINRA Rule 2010.

Orders routed to options exchanges must be marked with an origin code that reflects the type of market participant from whom the order originated. A Professional Customer origin code must be used for a person or entity that is not a securities broker or dealer and that enters a daily average of more than 390 orders in a month for its own beneficial account(s). Firms must perform quarterly reviews to determine which customers met the Professional Customer criteria during any month of the preceding quarter and must mark orders for those customers with Professional Customer origin codes for the entirety of the next quarter.

Beginning in July 2019, RHF conducted reviews of trading activity to determine if any of its customers met the Professional Customer criteria. The firm, however, incorrectly calculated each customer's average daily order volume for a given month by dividing the customer's total order volume by the number of calendar days rather than trading days. This method inadvertently undercounted the number of customers that met the Professional Customer criteria. As a result, RHF did not identify any accounts that met the Professional Customer criteria until April 2020, despite having customers whose orders should have been marked as Professional Customers as of the third quarter of 2019. RHF revised its calculation methodology in November 2021 to reference trading days rather than calendar days, and the firm completed its redesignation of relevant customer accounts as Professional Customers in February 2022.

Further, even after RHF began identifying customers that met the Professional Customer criteria in April 2020, the firm's order management system was not configured to route orders from accounts with Professional Customer origin codes. Instead, the system caused those orders to be routed with inaccurate Customer origin codes. This issue continued through November 2020.

As a result, from July 2019 through February 2022, RHF mismarked approximately 2.7 million options orders for 8.3 million contracts with an inaccurate origin code of Customer rather than Professional Customer.

Therefore, RHF violated Exchange Act Section 17(a), Exchange Act Rule 17a-3(a)(6)(i), and FINRA Rules 4511 and 2010.

b. RHF failed to reasonably supervise the accuracy of its origin code designations.

Prior to December 2019, RHF did not have a system, including WSPs, to reasonably supervise the accuracy of origin codes. After December 2019, RHF established written procedures that, among other things, defined a Professional Customer, and provided that RHF's Surveillance Controls Manager, or designated reviewer, was to perform an automated review, monthly or no less than quarterly, of all options activity to identify and verify the accuracy of Professional Customers.

Until November 2021, however, the review was not designed reasonably because, as described above, it used an incorrect methodology to calculate the average number of trades per day in a given month. Further, the firm's supervisory system did not detect the systems issue that caused orders from Professional Customers to be routed with inaccurate Customer origin codes until November 2020.

Therefore, RHF violated FINRA Rules 3110 and 2010.

4. RHS failed to report, and inaccurately reported, customer options positions to the LOPR system.

FINRA Rule 2360(b)(5) requires member firms to report to the Large Options Position Reporting system (LOPR)³⁰ each customer or firm account that, acting alone or in concert, has established an aggregate position of 200 or more option contracts on the same side of the market covering the same underlying security or index. The report must identify the account holder and the total number of option contracts for each options class comprising the reportable position and must include other information as prescribed by FINRA. The Options Clearing Corporation's (OCC) published guidance provides that firms should report positions by submitting “Add,” “Modify” or “Delete” records.³¹ A violation of FINRA Rule 2360(b)(5) also is a violation of FINRA Rule 2010.

a. RHS’s LOPR reporting violations.

During November 2018, RHS failed to report certain reportable options positions to LOPR in approximately 33,000 instances.³² Prior to November 2018, RHF custodied its customers’ options positions with its clearing firm and the clearing firm reported options positions to LOPR. When RHS began to clear and custody options positions for RHF customers in November 2018, RHS mistakenly believed that the previous clearing firm remained responsible for LOPR reporting for some of RHF customer accounts.

From November 2018 to March 2019, RHS also failed to determine whether any customer accounts were under common control or acting in concert. As a result, RHS failed to report approximately 40,000 instances of customer accounts as acting in concert.

Additionally, from November 2018 to January 2019, RHS reported options positions to LOPR with incorrect account names and account types in approximately 180,000 instances. RHS, which had no proprietary accounts during that time, reported its RHF customer positions using the “firm” account type and reported them using the firm name, rather than the names of accountholders. From November 2018 to May 2019, in an unknown number of instances, RHS failed to submit to LOPR “Modify” and “Delete” records for instances where customers’ positions changed on an options expiration date. Finally, in July 2020 and January 2021, due to errors following OCC’s rejection of records, RHS failed to submit to LOPR “Add,” “Modify” and “Delete” records in approximately 22,680 instances.

Therefore, RHS violated FINRA Rules 2360(b)(5) and 2010.

b. RHS failed to reasonably supervise LOPR reporting.

RHS failed to establish and maintain a supervisory system, including written procedures, reasonably designed to achieve compliance with FINRA Rule 2360. Specifically, from November 2018 to March 2019, RHS did not perform supervisory reviews reasonably designed to determine whether it was reporting all required in-concert groups to LOPR or to review reported options positions that the OCC rejected. Moreover, from November 2018 to August 2021, RHS’s WSPs concerning LOPR reporting did not provide sufficient detail regarding how the firm reviewed LOPR reporting for accuracy.

Therefore, RHS violated FINRA Rules 3110 and 2010.

³¹ See Large Options Positions Reporting (LOPR) Reference Guide for LOPR Firms, https://www.theocc.com/getmedia/af42a906-aa27-48a3-8529-8dec47ed4f7f/lopr_ref_guide.pdf; FINRA Regulatory Notice 16-17 (May 2016).

³² An “instance” occurs where a firm fails to report, or inaccurately reports, a position for one day. The number of instances is determined by multiplying a given reportable position by the number of trade dates that the position was not reported or was reported inaccurately.

5. RHS failed to report to FINRA its short interest positions.

FINRA Rule 4560 requires members to maintain a record of total short interest positions in all customer and proprietary firm accounts in all equity securities, and to regularly report such positions in a manner as prescribed by FINRA. A violation of FINRA Rule 4560 is also a violation of FINRA Rule 2010.

a. RHS's short interest reporting violations.

Although RHF does not allow its customers to engage in short selling, short positions were created in customer accounts due to options assignment activity. During a review of customer and inventory accounts in October 2021, RHS discovered that it held reportable short positions resulting from this options activity. Because RHS had erroneously believed that short positions could be created only through short selling, between November 2018, when RHS and RHF entered into an exclusive clearing arrangement, and October 15, 2021, RHS did not report the firm's short interest to FINRA. Across the 70 bi-monthly reporting cycles from November 15, 2018, to October 15, 2021, RHS failed to report 1,162 short interest positions totaling 1,697,998 shares.

Therefore, RHS violated FINRA Rules 4560 and 2010.

b. RHS failed to reasonably supervise short interest reporting.

Because it did not identify that it held reportable short positions until October 2021, between November 2018 and October 2021, RHS had no system or procedures in place to confirm that its short interest data was reported to FINRA. In addition, RHS's WSPs did not address the firm's obligation to report short position data under FINRA Rule 4560. In December 2021, the firm implemented WSPs and procedures concerning short interest reporting designed to confirm the accuracy and timely submission of short interest reporting to FINRA.

Therefore, RHS violated FINRA Rules 3110 and 2010.

J. RHS executed trades during halts and failed to comply with the Regulation NMS Plan to address extraordinary market volatility.

1. RHS traded securities during trading halts in violation of FINRA Rules 5260, 6121, and 2010.

FINRA Rule 5260 generally prohibits broker-dealers from directly or indirectly effecting any transaction or publishing a quotation in any security as to which a trading halt or trading pause is in effect.³³ FINRA Rule 6121 generally requires broker-dealers to halt trading during a market-wide trading halt. A violation of FINRA Rules 5260 or 6121 is also a violation of FINRA Rule 2010.

³³ FINRA Regulatory Notice 13-12 (Mar. 2013) provides that Rule 5260 applies to trading pauses as well as to trading halts.

a. RHS's trading violations.

From December 2019 through January 2023, RHS executed in a principal capacity over 33,000 transactions during approximately 1,200 trading halts and two market wide trading halts. If a firm, such as RHS, effects a transaction during a trading halt, a customer could receive a worse price than they would have received had the firm waited to execute the trade until after the halt. Here, in approximately 2,200 of the 33,000 transactions, customers received an inferior price. After FINRA brought the violations to the attention of RHS, RHS has identified 1,879 customers who received inferior prices and will pay them restitution totaling $5,807.

Therefore, RHS violated FINRA Rules 5260, 6121, and 2010.

b. RHS failed to establish a supervisory system reasonably designed to monitor trading during halts.

Between December 2019 and March 2021, RHS did not monitor trading halts, had no supervisory system for trading halts, and took no steps to prevent the firm from trading during halts. Beginning in March 2021, RHS began to take steps intended to prevent the firm from trading during halts. However, RHS did not establish any supervisory system, including WSPs, for achieving compliance with FINRA Rule 5260 until July 2022.

Therefore, RHS violated FINRA Rule 3110 and 2010.

2. RHS failed to comply with the Regulation NMS Plan to address extraordinary market volatility.

The joint industry Regulation NMS Plan to Address Extraordinary Market Volatility is intended to address the type of sudden price movements that the market experienced on the afternoon of May 6, 2010, commonly known as the "Flash Crash." The Plan provides for a limit up and limit down (LULD) mechanism to prevent trades in NMS stocks from occurring outside specified price bands, which are set at a percentage level above and below the average reference price of a security over the preceding five-minute period. LULD price bands for each NMS stock are calculated and disseminated by the securities information processors known as SIPs. The Plan is designed to protect investors and promote fair and orderly markets during extraordinary market volatility.

FINRA Rule 6190 requires member firms that are trading centers in NMS stocks to establish, maintain, and enforce written policies and procedures that are reasonably designed to comply with the requirements of the Plan and specifically to prevent, among other things, the execution of trades at prices that are below the lower price band or above the upper price band for an NMS stock, except as permitted under the Plan. Pursuant to FINRA Rule 6190 Supplementary Material .01, the term "trading center" has the meaning set forth in Regulation NMS. Rule 600(b)(106) of Regulation NMS defines "trading center" as, among other things, any broker-dealer that executes orders internally by trading as principal or crossing orders as agent.

RHS began executing fractional share trades as principal in December 2019 but was unaware that it was responsible for compliance with Rule 6190. Therefore, between December 2019 and June 2022, RHS failed to establish and maintain any supervisory system or written policies and procedures designed to prevent the execution of trades at prices that are below the lower price band or above the upper price band for an NMS stock. As a result, during that time, RHS executed over 265,000 transactions outside of the LULD bands. In July 2022, after FINRA raised the issue, RHS established a supervisory system and written procedures to detect and correct transactions outside of the LULD bands. However, RHS's supervisory system and procedures were not reasonable because they utilized a third-party report that inadvertently did not incorporate late reported trades, which were more than 95 percent of trades that RHS effected outside of the LULD bands. Consequently, between July 2022 and July 2023, RHS executed over 6,500 transactions outside of the LULD bands.³⁴

Therefore, RHS violated FINRA Rules 6190, 3110, and 2010.

B. Respondents also consent to the imposition of the following sanctions:

- a censure;
- a joint and several fine payable to FINRA in the amount of $26 million;
- restitution from RHF to affected customers, totaling $3,751,578.12 plus interest as described below;³⁵
- restitution from RHS to affected customers, totaling $5,807.00 plus interest as described below;³⁶

Each certification shall include a narrative description and supporting exhibits sufficient to demonstrate each Respondent's remediation and implementation. FINRA staff may request further evidence of each Respondent's remediation and implementation, and each ³⁴ In August 2023, RHS implemented an enhanced review designed to detect all trades outside of the LULD bands.

³⁶ This AWC orders RHS to pay restitution to a subset of customers affected by the firm's execution of trades during halts—specifically, those customers whose trades RHS executed at prices less favorable than the market price available at the time trading in the subject security resumed.

Respondent agrees to provide such evidence. Respondents shall submit each certification to Gabrielle Hirz, Senior Counsel, 1700 K St NW, Suite 1200, Washington, DC 20006, gabrielle.hirz@finra.org, with a copy to EnforcementNotice@finra.org. Upon written request showing good cause, FINRA staff may extend this deadline;

- an undertaking by RHS to pay the regulatory transaction fees as required for unreported fractional share trades executed between December 2019 and November 2022 pursuant to Section 3 of Schedule A to FINRA's By-Laws; and
- an undertaking by RHS that, within 180 days of the date of the notice of acceptance of this AWC, the firm will resubmit corrected versions of the erroneous or incomplete blue sheets that are the subject of this AWC to FINRA, as directed by Susan Vaughan, Senior Director, Information Management. Upon written request showing good cause, FINRA staff may extend this deadline.

Respondents agree to pay the monetary sanctions upon notice that this AWC has been accepted and that such payment is due and payable. Respondents have submitted an Election of Payment form showing the method by which they propose to pay the fines imposed.

Restitution is ordered to be paid: (1) by RHF to the customers listed on Attachment A to this AWC (Eligible Customers) in the total amount of $3,751,578.12, plus interest; and (2) by RHS to the customers associated with each trade listed on Attachment B to this AWC (Eligible Customers) in the total amount of $5,807.00, plus interest. Interest shall be paid at the rate set forth in Section 6621(a)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code, 26 U.S.C. § 6621(a)(2), from the date of the relevant transaction(s) for each customer identified on Attachments A and B until the date this AWC is accepted by the National Adjudicatory Council (NAC).

A registered principal on behalf of each Respondent shall submit satisfactory proof of payment of restitution and interest (separately specifying the date and amount of each paid to each Eligible Customer) or of reasonable and documented efforts undertaken to effect restitution. Such proof shall be submitted by email to EnforcementNotice@FINRA.org from a work-related account of the registered principal of each Respondent. The email must identify the Respondent and the case number and include a copy of the check, money order, or other method of payment. This proof shall be provided by email to EnforcementNotice@FINRA.org no later than 120 days after the date of the notice of acceptance of the AWC.

The restitution amount plus interest to be paid to each Eligible Customer shall be treated by the Respondents as the Eligible Customer's property for purposes of state escheatment, unclaimed property, abandoned property, and similar laws. If after reasonable and documented efforts undertaken to effect restitution a Respondent is unable to pay all Eligible Customers within 120 days after the date of the notice of acceptance of the AWC, the Respondent shall submit to FINRA in the manner described above a list of the unpaid Eligible Customers and a description of the Respondent's plan, not unacceptable to FINRA, to comply with the applicable escheatment, unclaimed property, abandoned property, or similar laws for each such Eligible Customer.

Respondents specifically and voluntarily waive any right to claim an inability to pay, now or at any time after the execution of this AWC, the monetary sanctions imposed in this matter.

The imposition of a restitution order or any other monetary sanction in this AWC, and the timing of such ordered payments, does not preclude customers from pursuing their own actions to obtain restitution or other remedies.

Restitution payments to customers shall be preceded or accompanied by a letter, not unacceptable to FINRA, describing the reason for the payment and the fact that the payment is being made pursuant to a settlement with FINRA and as a term of this AWC.

The sanctions imposed in this AWC shall be effective on a date set by FINRA.

II.

WAIVER OF PROCEDURAL RIGHTS

Respondents specifically and voluntarily waive the following rights granted under FINRA's Code of Procedure:

- A. To have a complaint issued specifying the allegations against them;
- B. To be notified of the complaint and have the opportunity to answer the allegations in writing;
- C. To defend against the allegations in a disciplinary hearing before a hearing panel, to have a written record of the hearing made, and to have a written decision issued; and
- D. To appeal any such decision to the National Adjudicatory Council (NAC) and then to the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission and a U.S. Court of Appeals.

CORRECTIVE ACTION STATEMENT

In connection with the issuance of the Letter of Acceptance, Waiver and Consent No. 2019060756501 (“AWC”), Robinhood Financial LLC (“RHF”) and Robinhood Securities, LLC (“RHS”) (together, the “Firms,” or the “Respondents”) submit this statement describing certain of the actions taken with respect to the issues described in the AWC.¹

As described below, the Firms and their parent company, Robinhood Markets, Inc. (collectively, “Robinhood”), have undertaken extensive remedial measures to address the issues identified in the AWC. In addition, in connection with RHF’s June 30, 2021 settlement with FINRA (the “2021 AWC”) settlement, RHF retained an independent consultant to “conduct a comprehensive review of the adequacy of [RHF’s] compliance” with seven different areas of its business, including the review of retail communications, anti-money laundering, and customer identification programs during the period August 1, 2020 through August 17, 2021. Robinhood implemented numerous enhancements at the recommendation of the independent compliance consultant (“ICC”), several of which are included in the descriptions below.

- Changes to collaring practice and related disclosures: RHF’s customer agreement, use and risk disclosures, and website “Help Center” articles contained disclosures about the collaring practice beginning in June 2014 and continuing through October 2021. At times, as reflected in the AWC, these disclosures did not always accurately and completely reflect changes that RHF made to its collaring practice. RHF aligned those disclosures with its practices and has enhanced its supervision of the communications with the public process. RHF’s supervisory system for supervising communications with customers was the subject of the ICC’s review ordered in the 2021 AWC, which provided its recommendations in December 2021. In connection with the ICC’s recommendations, RHF (among other things) updated its training and guidance related to changes to communications with the public, implemented regular sample-based reviews of communications with the public to confirm principal approval, updated its procedures for identifying outdated or expired communications with the public, conducted a risk-based review of active communications, and implemented a regularly-scheduled review of its customer agreements. In 2023, RHF discontinued its collaring practice by modifying its default order types and their corresponding disclosures. Beginning in the third quarter of 2024, RHF began rolling out non-collared market buy orders to customers under specific disclosed circumstances.
- Enhancements to Robinhood’s anti-money laundering (“AML”) program: Beginning in 2021, Robinhood substantially enhanced the AML program used by both Firms. Robinhood retained a consultant to review relevant procedures; upgraded the technology; revised and implemented new procedures for investigating and reporting suspicious activity; implemented additional trainings and guidance for relevant personnel; increased the size of the staff; hired more experienced managers for key roles such as AML surveillance, financial crimes governance and quality control, model validation and analytics and AML investigations, as well as other personnel with relevant experience to investigate suspicious activity; implemented a new system for tracking and managing investigations; and implemented new transaction surveillance and onboarding systems. Robinhood's Financial Crimes department reviews and investigates suspicious activity alerts, using its upgraded surveillance, tracking, and case management technology.

- Enhancements to Robinhood's Customer Identification Program ("CIP"): Beginning in August 2020 and continuing through the end of 2020, RHF conducted a comprehensive review of its onboarding program. In November 2021, RHF implemented new vendors and strengthened logic for identity verification. RHF also re-verified the identities of certain customers who had been approved based on previous automated processes. The ICC engaged in connection with the 2021 AWC reviewed RHF's CIP, including the tailoring of the CIP to RHF's business, oversight of the CIP, written policies and procedures, systems and tools, and onboarding and escalation processes. The ICC submitted its observations and recommendations in December 2021, after the end date of the Relevant Period in this AWC. RHF subsequently implemented all of the recommendations from the ICC.
- Enhanced supervision of clearing broker technology: Beginning in February 2021, RHS continued implementing improvements to its clearing system, which has included taking numerous steps to remediate "runner lag" and its possible effects and increasing the clearing system's capacity on multiple fronts. RHS has also made significant improvements in reducing the runtime for batch by optimizing the engineering components and aspects of the process. The Brokerage Engineering team, which is responsible for the clearing system, reports (including the escalation of any issues) to the registered Vice President of Engineering, who himself reports to the Chief Brokerage Officer. RHS also established a Risk and Operating Committee consisting of registered principals responsible for overseeing risk exposures to operations, compliance, and technology. Identified technology issues impacting RHS's brokerage operations are escalated to designated principals and are reported to the Risk and Operating Committee for oversight.
- Enhanced supervision of associated persons to achieve compliance with FINRA registration requirements: In July 2021, RHF and RHS restructured their supervisory processes to limit active engagement in or direct responsibility over the management of the Firms to appropriate registered Principals or Operations Professionals. Both RHF and RHS implemented Boards of Managers and key committees composed of registered principals responsible for the supervision of the broker-dealers. In August 2022, the Firms transitioned their organizational structure to a General Manager model in which an experienced registered Chief Brokerage Officer, who reports directly to the CEO of the parent company, oversees both broker-dealers.

- Enhanced supervision of trading in associated persons' accounts: Beginning in 2021, the Firms initiated a comprehensive review of their associated person designations. Since that time, RHF and RHS have expanded the scope of their surveillance to include all associated persons identified in these reviews. The Firms, furthermore, conduct weekly reviews and validations, as well as an annual review, to confirm appropriate associated person designations and potential expansions. The Firms have also significantly upgraded the technology, including by implementing a comprehensive enterprise-level compliance monitoring technology solution, and developing a control room, which has strengthened their review and surveillance of, among other things, associated person brokerage accounts, including the disclosure and monitoring of outside brokerage accounts.
- Cessation of affiliate influencer program: RHF terminated the affiliate influencer program described in the AWC in March 2023.
- Changes to ACATS processing: Between March 2020 and July 2022, RHS discontinued its practice of rejecting customers' requests to transfer all of their assets under the conditions described in the AWC.
- Enhanced supervision of required delivery of account documentation: Beginning in February 2022, RHF took steps to address the specific delivery failures described in the AWC, such as sending in-app messages and paper disclosures to customers for whom the firm received an email bounceback for certain mailings. It also took steps to update its supervisory system to address the issue. Since identifying and self-reporting broader issues with email bounce backs in 2023, RHF has implemented a system and engaged a third-party vendor for sending physical mail after receiving an email bounce back and to assist in monitoring return-to-sender physical mail.
- Enhanced supervision of trade, order and position data reporting: RHS has remediated all of the Electronic Blue Sheets ("EBS"), Trade Reporting Facility ("TRF"), Large Options Position Report ("LOPR") and Consolidated Audit Trail ("CAT") reporting issues identified in the AWC on a go-forward basis. RHF also enhanced its supervision of origin codes by implementing a quarterly process to identify Professional Customers and verify that the appropriate FIX tag is applied to orders. After determining in 2021 that RHS had short interest positions to report, RHS created a short interest reporting process to properly upload all reportable short interest. RHS has enhanced its EBS, CAT, LOPR and TRF reporting supervisory processes to include: (1) more robust periodic sample testing to confirm trade information was submitted accurately and timely; (2) maintenance of tracking logs or checklists to monitor submissions; (3) designated principal review of tracking logs or checklists; (4) escalation of material reporting issues to a designated principal; and (5) enhanced processes for data validation and quality assurance. RHS also has built out additional control frameworks to achieve accuracy, completeness, and consistency across its trade reporting systems, including internal dashboards and risk metrics. It has also created a dedicated Regulatory Reporting team and a dedicated regulatory reporting engineering team. RHS has documented these improvements in updated EBS, TRF and CAT policies and procedures.

- Enhanced market volatility controls: In July 2022, RHS established a supervisory system and written procedures to monitor trading halts and prevent executions during trading halts.
